

To Discuss Canada's Role In Americas

J. P. Humphrey
Is Guest Speaker
At I. R. Club

This coming Wed. Jan. 17th at 8.30 p.m. in the Grillroom of the Union, the International Relations Club will gather to hear guest speaker of the evening Professor J. P. Humphrey, member of the Faculty of Law. Prof. Humphrey, honorary President of the I.R. Club has chosen for his address "Panamericanism" with regard to Canada's entering into the Pan American Union.

Marc Lapointe, President, has extended an open invitation to all students at the University of Montreal, who are interested in Canada's relationships with her neighbors to the south.

The Pan-American Union largely dominated by the U.S.A., has initiated and guided many activities in the economic, political, social and research fields, and also a pioneer in the field of institutional cooperation in the Americas.

Only within recent years in Canada has there been such an extended interest taken in the southern countries comprising the New World. This is exemplified today by the fact that Canada is rapidly exchanging ambassadors with various South American countries, and furthermore the Spanish language is being studied not only in the Universities across Canada, but in the secondary schools as well.

Those who plan to attend this meeting of the club are asked to come prepared with pros and cons for entering into the Pan American Union, as discussion will follow the address to be given by Prof. Humphrey.

Varsity Debaters Veto Capitalism

Affirmative Declares
Profit Predominates
In Interfaculty Debate

Toronto, Jan. 9.—(CUP)—The resolution that permanent international peace cannot be achieved under the capitalist system was upheld by a majority of three votes at the session of the Interfaculty Debating Union held in Alumnae Hall, Victoria College, last night.

The first speaker for the affirmative, Guy Mathurin, II St. Mike's, stated that since profit motives predominate, and since war requires money, capital will not be advanced unless there is profit to be derived. Hence capitalism will nurture war.

Harry Hodder, III Vic, speaking for the negative, contended that there was no basis for associating the tendencies for war such as war profiteering, expansion and imperialism, and protectionism with capitalism. War was caused not by these with capital but these without.

Stating that insecurity grew under capitalist system, June Wrong, II U.C., added that this made for class conflicts which in turn lead to national and international strife.

Barbara Hood, III St. Mike's, drew an analogy between the capitalist system and the world community. She said that the characteristics of both are compatible.

Professor E. W. Burgess will hold an informal discussion today at 4 p.m., in the Montreal School of Social Work, 3600 University St. His topic will concern Sociological problems of the day.

A release from the Sociological Society stated that Professor Burgess is an acknowledged leader in the whole field of sociology, and in his many travels, especially in Russia and other parts of Europe, has made first-hand studies of sociological conditions. He has specialized in the study of family problems and in penology.

All those interested in this subject are urged by the society to attend this afternoon's discussion.

Toronto Students Hear M. Faucher

Causes of Disunity
Subject of Talk to
U. of T. French Club

Toronto, Jan. 9. — (CUP) — The main difficulties in Canadian social relations are determined by the peculiar geographic and economic situations existing in this country, said M. Faucher, addressing the University College French Club last evening on "The Social Problems of Canada."

Commenting on the social problems, M. Faucher said that the fact that there is no continuous stretch of agricultural land in Canada as in the United States, has concentrated certain types of industry in small areas.

Because Canadian unity is hindered in this way, there are five geographical Canadas, the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies, and British Columbia, he said. The multiplicity of points of view is shown by the strong nationalism of French Canada. M. Faucher stressed the real difficulties which hinder Canadian unity, and said that the solution to the problem rests with the youth of Canada.

French and English Canadians can live together in harmony without losing their originality, he stated. The social part of the evening commenced with the singing of French Christmas carols, followed by games and contests. The meeting closed with refreshments and dancing.

Mathematical Society Hears Dr. Pall Tomorrow

Dr. Gordon Pall of the Department of Mathematics will be the speaker when the Mathematical Society opens its second term activities tomorrow at 5 p.m. in room 37 of the Engineering Building.

"It is difficult to define exactly the subject of my talk, Topology," said Dr. Pall in a statement last night. "But it may be said to deal with the relations of objects in space. I intend to deal with the mathematical aspect of certain puzzles which may be solved by Topology, for example the problem of running gas, water and electric lines to a row of houses so that the lines do not cross." Dr. Pall added that many problems that seem to require trial-and-error methods for their solution fall easily before the proper type of analysis.

Vets to Discuss Rehabilitation

Meeting Considers
Adaptation of Men
To Student Life

Major E. D. E. Hoskin, president of the Veterans' Society of McGill disclosed in an interview today that the society is planning a meeting next Wednesday at which questions on rehabilitation will be raised.

It was stated that a speaker had not as yet been chosen, and that he was seeking someone who knows the problems of the student veterans intimately. Among the subjects to be discussed, are whether or not pensioned veterans may work, and many other problems concerning the adaptation of these returned servicemen to student life.

Major Hoskin intimated that the society considers it essential for the

Ideas Paged to Fill the Bill With New Yells for Old McGill

By Allan Knight

M-C-G-I-L-L — What's the matter with old McGill? Now that's a good question, but the answer is nothing that a few good yells wouldn't cure. Everybody and his sister have been complaining about the lack of college spirit, but when asked to try overcome it, merely shrug and say, "Suggestions, please!"

Well, the Students Athletics Council, or to be more specific, the Athletics Festival Committee, has come up with what they consider a brainwave. They, and everyone else, have noticed the dearth of McGill yells, which of course is intimately connected with the aforementioned spirit, and are sponsoring a contest to encourage embryonic poets and sonneteers.

The contest is to compose original cheers or yells which can be used at McGill events. That means that the theme should be McGill, its colors (red and white, as if you didn't know), and of course its impending victory over Varsity, or Queen's or Western, or anyone else.

Everyone knows what a cheer sounds like. And everyone, one time or another has attempted to scribble jingles. So all you have to do is sit down, think for a minute or two (this is not prerequisite to a good yell) and write. Write all you want and as many as you want, and bring them all in.

This contest is to get underway immediately, and will be open until Friday, January 26. All entries are to be handed in to the Tuck Shop in the Union, and addressed merely to the Cheer Contest. The judges will be composed of members of the Students Athletics Council and of the M.W.S.A.A.

Now for the prize angle, ah yes, the repayment for services rendered. First, and we think it is the most important, is the honor, glory and undying fame which will go to the composers of the first three winning cheers or yells. Their brain-children will be judged at the Athletics Festival on Feb. 2, when a host of cheerleaders will lead the huge throng in an attempt to tear the roof off the gym.

This, of course, is not all. An added incentive of material value will be decided upon shortly by the committee, something suitable for the occasion and the accomplishment.

So, let's try for those first prizes and the limelight, chillun, and keep them yelling.

Quebec Students Change Places With Mexicans

Both Groups To Take
Cultural Courses
In Visiting Countries

The second group of Quebec students to leave Canada for cultural courses at the University of Mexico will board a bus here on January 18 and are expected to arrive in Mexico City on January 28, Ernesto Martinez Trejo, Mexican Consul-General said yesterday. The students, mostly from Laval University, Quebec City, will be augmented by about six from McGill University and the University of Montreal. The first group went to Mexico last August.

Before leaving the city the group, about 40 in number, will be tendered a reception in the Windsor Hotel by the consul-general and his staff and by the Inter-American Association on January 17. They will remain in Mexico about three months.

Mr. Trejo said that another group of Mexican students will leave Mexico City about the same time and will arrive in Montreal about the end of January. They will remain about six weeks studying French and English at the University.

N.Y. Times Correspondent Addresses Canadian Club

Percy J. Philip, foreign correspondent of the New York Times, put forward two unusual suggestions as to the future treatment of Germany, in an address yesterday to the Canadian Club of Montreal at the Windsor Hotel. The war he declared was in essence between those who sought to govern by personal authority, and those who sought to preserve the old Anglo-Saxon principle that the people cannot be commanded.

He suggested that if anything was to be imposed on the Germans it should be the abolition of conscription in Germany, believing that other nations would also do this when the war was over.

"We English-speaking people all agree that habeas corpus is the ultimate denial of the totalitarian principle of the right of the State to order men to do things," he said. "We would be giving the German people the law and right which is the foundation of all our liberties."

"For our own sakes," he continued, "we must return to that old conception of law, that government of the people must be by the people themselves, and by imposing it on the Germans we might give even to these dumb obedient people some glimmering notion, which would develop in time, that they have souls of their own and that the State is not everything." Pointing out that conscription in its modern form was invented by the French revolutionaries in the name of the people, and commenting that it was often that way that the suppression of liberty began, Mr. Philip continued: "Conscription is contrary to the whole British conception and tradition, and although the British people have now, twice in their recent history, consented to it, in moments of grave national danger, and done a good job of it, I am certain that they will refuse, when the danger is past, to continue a system which in their mind, gives too much power, even to a good government. The Americans I am sure, will do the same. But we must do more than that if we are to free the world from the dangers of another mass slaughter of its manhood. We must suppress the evil of conscription everywhere, as we suppressed slavery—for in the German form that is what it amounted to.

"If we could give the Germans habeas corpus, and suppress obligatory army service, we would be giving them a chance to acquire liberty, if they have the wit to take it, and to behave as men and not as robots. When they live in countries where they have these freedoms they have shown

Higher Civilian Entrance Standards Are Discussed

The question of raising the entrance requirements for civilian students, in the event of an influx of war veteran students, is under discussion at McGill, it was stated last night by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor. No decision on the matter had, as yet, been reached, the principal added.

Kingston, Jan. 8.—(CUP)—The arts faculty of Queen's University announced today entrance requirements for civilian students are being raised but that the new regulations will not effect former servicemen.

For next September's term, civilians seeking admission to an arts course must have their junior matriculation in two languages as well as English or senior matriculation in English plus three or four other subjects. Students entering with only four subjects must hold at least third class honors in three subjects.

Plan Presented For Trusteeship Of Colonies

Reports Made By Commission To Study
Organization of Peace

A plan for colonial trusteeship, aimed at ensuring the welfare of non-self governing peoples, was advanced yesterday by the commission to study the organization of peace.

The plan includes a declaration of United Nations principles supported by regional commissions and a permanent trusteeship council and is offered, it was emphasized, not as a final text but as an outline covering an area left undecided at Dumbarton Oaks.

Salient features of the proposal were explained at a press conference at the commission offices in New York by Dr. James T. Shotwell, commission chairman, and Clark M. Eichelberger, the commission's national director.

The plan itself was prepared by

Manitobans Cast Canadian Play

Gwen Ringwood's
'Dark Harvest'
To Have Premier

Winnipeg, Jan. 9.—(CUP)—Premier performances of a Canadian play, Dark Harvest, will be given by the University of Manitoba Dramatic Society Jan. 17 and 18 in the concert hall of the civic auditorium. The play by Gwen Pharis Ringwood, of Edmonton, is said to be one of Canada's finest writers.

The plot of Dark Harvest is described as the problem of maladjustment of human relationships and the spiritual relationship between God and man. The local is the prairies in the years of drought and depression.

Mrs. Ringwood has had several plays produced in Winnipeg, among them Still Stands the House, and The Courtship of Marie Jenvin. She will come to Winnipeg to see the performances of Dark Harvest.

The play will be directed by George Broderston and the cast includes Rhena Robertson, R. Woodward-Jewsbury, Lorne Chandonet, Marjory Ellis, Meredith Robinson, Donald Hald and Ted Follows.

ARMY PAPER IN CHIPS

In a release received by the "Daily" from New York it was learned that the Stars and Stripes, United States Army newspaper which sells for two cents a copy, has made a profit of $3,000,000 in the European war theatre where its circulation is "better than 1,000,000," Col. Ensley M. Llewellyn reports. Back in the United States from the European theatre of operations where he is officer in charge of the editions printed in London, Paris, Marseilles and Besancon, Col. Llewellyn says he hopes soon to see a Belgium edition with a Liege dateline and another with a dateline inside Germany.

Women's Union Campaigns For War Service Recruits

Organizations Throughout Montreal
Feel Shortage of Trained Workers

The Women's Union is projecting a campaign for greater participation of women in the University War Service Program this term. The courses offered are listed on the R.V.C. notice board and include a wide variety of subjects which should enable everyone to choose something specifically interesting to themselves.

There is an urgent need for women to help out in many city agencies and war-time organizations and this shortage of workers is increasing daily. Workers are now spread out as evenly as possible and trained assistants are in demand everywhere. In order to alleviate this shortage to the best of their ability, the C.W.S.P. will place any woman student willing to offer her services. Those students interested in being placed as qualified workers should sign up in the C.W.S.P. office, room 9 of R.V.C. between the hours of 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The C.W.S.P. stresses the fact that the war is far from over at present and we should contribute as much as possible to its eventual end. This year, war service is not a compulsory part of extra-curricular activity because it was thought that students would realize the necessity of continuing to support the war service program. It is essential that students put forth every effort in endeavoring to make life more pleasant for those men fighting overseas and in carrying the solution of our home problems to a successful end. This is an essential part of the foundation for the lasting peace to come and the return of our country to prosperity and happiness in the future. All women students who have not already signed up for war service are urged to do so as soon as possible.

—Ed.

Amid the blood-curdling screams of many mystic characters, and various rather weird costumes I entered together with the faculty, who, for some reason or other, were branded with a "G.M." which undoubtedly means "Grand Magistrate." As we were rather unceremoniously blindfolded and told to walk up the stairs, I felt no stairs at all, only fabric under my feet, and when I reached the top and bravely called for my companions, I heard only a horrible scream of "No, no, please, you are killing me," then silence—and I was alone.

Suddenly a cold and clammy hand took mine in its grasp, and I found that it had been thrust in something that felt like the remains of an animal. Then a voice commanded me to crawl on my knees, and I did so gladly—although I felt humiliation to a great degree. I crept along at a snail's pace, and after I had stopped shaking sufficiently from encountering one frightening object in my face, I would immediately encounter another. I thought to myself, "if I ever escape intact I shall be more careful as to what dwellings I enter in the future."

Finally after endless crawling, it seemed that I should be finding an end of this labyrinth of horror, and when I felt something sharp pierce my leg, I rose to the limits of my horizon.

I found that I could stand upright, and after passing over a very unstable object, I was allowed to proceed alone. As I walked I felt much better, but not for long, for I found myself hanging by my hoops on a hurdle of some sort. I screamed for help, but to no avail until I heard a rip and fell to the floor.

Rising, I walked further, and heard a voice saying: "Miss Bronte, your doom has come. You are sentenced to walk the plank."

I nearly swooned with fright but knew that if I must die, I would be brave. What blood-thirsty people these students were to thrust death upon an invited guest! In front of me I heard water swishing and I screamed, and once again, daintiness I was heartlessly told to continue, and found myself being led by someone. I was pushed down on a slippery mat and went whizzing into space, coming to an abrupt and undignified end.

Then I walked into the gymnasium where my blindfold

RED CAGERS FACE SOUTHWESTERN Y TONIGHT

Local College Squad Undeclared as Yet In First Three Tilts

Combines to Meet Georgians In Second Half of Twin Bill; Greenberg to Play for Former

McGill's high-flying hoopers inaugurate the second half of the M.B.L. schedule tonight at 8.15 p.m. when they take the floor against a strong Southwestern Y quintet in the first half of a twin bill. The aftermath will see the Georgians gunning for their initial victory of the season in a tilt with the second-place Combine squad.

Although the Verdun boys will be missing Dave Greenberg who formerly has been their main scoring threat, they will be difficult to stop since the practices that they have held over the holidays have resulted in a considerably improved team. Coach Moe Brenhouse is anxious that his charges emerge victorious as a defeat for the Redmen would not only constitute a gain in points for Southwestern Y but would also help the Combines who are still smarting from the 46-24 trouncing suffered at the hands of the locals.

McGill on the other hand are in no position to relax since the Combines are hot on their heels, the two teams being separated by only two points. Incidentally the aforementioned Greenberg is the newest addition to the already powerful Combines and any points that the Redmen can garner will certainly come in handy in the latter half of the season.

Practices Held

During the holidays the local cagers have also been put through the paces by Coach Van Wagner in preparation for the coming games. Particular attention was paid to dribbling and fast-breaking play so that the collegians will be a much improved team when they appear on the floor tonight. The latest figures released by the league show that McGill is the strongest team both offensively and defensively as well as being the only squad in the loop that has been undefeated. The Redmen have amassed 128 points against their opponents while they have held the other teams to 76 points. Their nearest rivals are the Combines who sport a 97-92 record.

Rosentzveig Starring

Leading the Red and White scoring parade is Leo Rosentzveig, the collegiate law student who was chosen last year as the most valuable member to his team in the M.B.L. Rosentzveig's 25 point total is also tops for the whole M.B.L., his nearest opponent being Moe Elcovitch of the Combines who has 24. Leo however does not confine himself to scoring for he is one of the main reasons for McGill being the least scored upon team. His steady, heady play has been a big factor in the Redmen's victories and his great defensive ability has enabled the forwards to concentrate on scoring with the knowledge that their defence is secure.

Two points behind Rosentzveig is George Davidson while Vic Curran has amassed 21 points. Sammy Roth is also developing into a first-class, two-way player. Coach Van Wagner is using Roth more and more due to his improved play around both baskets, sinking the basket in the opponent's cage and aptly snatching rebounds from around his own basket. Harms and Goodwin have also displayed outstanding ability around their own net.

Interclass Hockey League To Get Under Way Soon

The Interclass Hockey League was born yesterday at a meeting of the various hockey representatives from the different faculties. Under the able management of Jon Ballon, the meeting ironed out all the preliminary difficulties that confront the formation of any league.

The schedule will commence within the next week and all games will be played in the evenings between 5 and 7. All matches will take place under the supervision of qualified referees at the MacTavish rinks and will be one hour in length.

All students who attend McGill are eligible to play, the only requirement being that they either sign the lists posted on the notice boards or that they contact their faculty representatives within the next week.

McGill Pucksters To Meet Navy Squad

Many Entries Received For Snooker Tournament

Lists of contestants for the snooker tournament scheduled for next week will be removed from the notice boards this Friday evening. Numerous entries have been made up to the present time indicating widespread enthusiasm in this contest. All those wishing to enter must sign the list. There will be a nominal charge of twenty-five cents to be paid by each entry.

Three ping pong matches scheduled for today were not played.

Face Strong Middies In Important Fixture; Dan Porteous to Play

Farquharson to Coach Sailors; Redmen Minus Two Regulars

One of the most crucial N.D.-H.L. games will be played tonight when the McGill Redmen tangle with the Middies in the second half of a twin bill at the Forum. Both teams stand to better their positions through a victory tonight, as a win would put the Redmen one point behind the Tars, and only two points behind the second place Army team, should the latter sextet lose to the Flyers in the opener. Should the Tars emerge victors and the Army lose tonight, the Navy boys will move into second-place, one point ahead of the M.D. 4 pucksters.

Hugh Farquharson, the Middies' Coach, who has been away from his post for the past three weeks, will be at the helm for tonight's game, and stakes his hopes for a win in his high-scoring line of Buchanan, Paulsen, and Gibbon. The Redmen will be bolstered by the advent of Dan Porteous, a former Air Force puckster, and a player of no mean repute in local circles. He has played for the Junior Royals and Loyola College, and is expected to go a long way in strengthening the McGill forward lines.

Loss Of Two Redmen

In spite of this, however, the Redmen will be minus two of their regular teammates, namely, John Costigan and Bob Layton, Costigan has entered the hospital to undergo an operation on his nose which was fractured in the last game, while Layton is suffering from an injured hand. Meanwhile brother Phil Layton will tend goal for McGill tonight, replacing Tony Doherty who has been absent from the nets since the last game.

Dr. Bobby Bell, coaching the Redmen per usual, has built the squad for tonight around the forward lines of Hale, Hale and Sinclair, and Gagnon, Porteous and Pittfield. Bruce Ward and Bob Brodrick will be the mainstays in front of Phil Layton.

Weakened Air Force

In the opener, Army faces a much-weakened Air Force team. The Flyers have lost four of their key men in Syd Abel, Jimmy Haggerty, Ernie Trigg, and Frank Boucher. Abel, a former Red Winger, will either receive an overseas posting, or his discharge, in which case he will be returning to the N.H.L. Haggerty played in the Senior league for some time, while Trigg was formerly a Cleveland Baron, and Boucher, nephew of New York Ranger's Frank Boucher, had started on a professional career before enlisting in the R.C.A.F.

With the Airman short of these men, the Army team is confident of a win tonight, and by defeating the Flyers, plan to end the Lachine boys' winning streak. They are basing their expectations on such formidable players as Marshall, Deslongchamps, Denis, Paper and Champagne.

Ring Champions Stage Exhibitions

Castilloux, Mell Bibeau Entertain Soldiers At Longue Pointe Depot

Monday night the boys at Longue Pointe Ordnance Depot were treated to a boxing show when three of the Canadian boxing champions staged an exhibition for the local soldiers. Showing their true champion make-up Dave Castilloux, Gus Mell and Florian Bibeau worked out in brisk two round exhibitions with other popular boxers.

Dave Castilloux staged two short, fast bouts with Rajah Sabu and Jean Barriere, local hard hitting slugger. These matches featured every-trick of the trade and the khaki-clad audience were treated to a rare show.

In a bang-up bout against Raymond Daoust, Gus Mell had to put his best punch forward and in doing this showed that he has the stuff that champs are made of. This match was very well received for it featured the hardest hitting of the evening, since both boxers went all out to see that the soldiers got the best show possible.

In the other two bouts of the evening Florian Bibeau took on Roger Alaire and Young Carroll of Quebec. These two bouts lasted two rounds apiece and gave Bibeau every opportunity to show his vaunted striking power. Nevertheless the matches showed good spirit on part of all who volunteered their services.

Carabins, Reds Clash Possible In Near Future

Arrangements Underway For Intercollegiate Tilt With Intercity Rivalry

The discussion of the possibility of a game between the University of Montreal and the McGill hockey team highlighted a meeting of the Students Athletics Council held at the Union last night.

Preliminary moves have been made and Al Rae, Red hockey manager, has been named to represent the locals. The date has been tentatively set towards the end of February.

Approval from Toronto and Western has been received to date for a telegraphic swim meet to be held Feb. 21. Replies from Queen's and McMaster are pending. The meet will be along the lines of the successful event held last year between the Red team and Varsity.

Some progress was reported by Hay Finlay, Athletics Manager, on the arrangements for a meeting of the C.I.A.U. with a view to resumption of Intercollegiate sports. It is hoped that a gathering can be effected by Easter, so that football's "college Big Four" can start in the fall.

A report on the coming Festival was given by Dick Balfour, and the meeting approved of plans for decorations and lighting.

The Constitution Committee's advice that no change be made in the constitution at this time was accepted.

New managers appointed for the coming year were Hugh Brody, football; T. Wood, soccer; John Wight, tennis; A. Smith, English Rugby.

Bruce Ward was reelected chairman of the S.A.C. for the coming term.

Students and others travelling to McGill University from Notre Dame de Grace and Westmount are advised that a supplementary bus service is now operating eastbound from GREENE AVENUE, between 8.00 A.M. and 9.10 A.M. daily, except Sundays and Holidays

It is suggested that passengers who find difficulty in obtaining accommodation on buses coming from Notre Dame de Grace, in the Morning, can use the buses which start from Greene Ave. by taking street cars to the corner of Sherbrooke Street and Greene Avenue and transferring to the buses at that point, on payment of a 2-1/2 cent ticket, or 3 cents cash.

Fernand Lesard did it again this year. For the fifth consecutive year the 21-year-old Ste. Sauveur skier won the opening slalom of the season by jackrabbiting down the precipitous slopes of Mont Gabriel in 1 min. 2 secs. to outpace a field of 60 competitors.

When we say precipitous we mean it, for Scott's Clip, on which Hans Falkner set his 2,500 foot course, drops 350 feet in the first 1,100 feet. Falkner, formerly of Mont Tremblant and now the pro at Mont Gabriel, did his best to make the course as tough, if not tougher than any set in this district in the last few years. In all there were 55 gates cunningly arranged in a series of hairpins, "H's", flushes and corridors. The seven gate flush on the schuss at the top of the hill was the downfall of many an over-ambitious racer, including Rhona Wurtele. Rhoda, the other half of the famous twin-sister combination was edged out of first place by Gaby Pleau of Quebec.

U. de M. Outpoints McGill

In the men's section the U. de M. racers took four of the first fifteen places, while Andy Huggessen was the only McGill man to score. The racers from the other side of the mountain have been exercising all fall and are in good condition for racing. However, now that the mid-term exams are done with the McGill men will have more time to get their legs toughened up.

Following is a condensed summary of the results:

Place	Name	Time
1.	F. Lessard, St. Sauveur	1.21.6
2.	M. Zajac, Polish Air Force	1.23.6
3.	L. Duval, Shawbridge	1.23.8
4.	A. Huggessen, McGill	1.30.6
5.	G. Scotte, U. de M.	1.41.2
10.	C. Landry, U. de M.	1.42.8

Interfaculty Hockey Today; Engineers Face Med-Dents

Grads-Law Pucksters Drop 8-2 Decision To Commerce Sextet

Playing with only five men proved to be too much of a handicap for Law's hockey squad, as they dropped yesterday's Interfaculty ice tilt to Commerce by an 8-2 count.

The Accountants got off to a fast start by whipping home their opening tally in the first five minutes. They added one more in the initial stanza, three in the second period and three more in the final frame. The Law-Grad aggregation tallied both their goals in the last period.

The Commerce scoring was evenly split between Rouleau, Delalanne and Bob McBoyle, each of whom notched two pointers apiece, while John Wight and Albany Moore halved the remaining two at one apiece. For the Law-Grads, Ray Lemieux, who played a driving game up front, garnered the two tallies.

Most of the play took place inside the Law-Grads' blue line area, and Herb Shayne, in the Commerce nets, was not called upon to make any saves for a large portion of the game. In the losers cage, Jules Beauregard gave an excellent performance and held the score down to reasonable limits.

Today the Med-Dents open their season against the Engineers at the Forum. Fraser Farlinger's crew are somewhat unknown and may yet prove to be the dark horse of the race. The Engineers have several topnotchers in almost every department, although they have yet to play a game.

Engineers Aim To Win

The Engineers, with one victory under their belts (a default game against the Grad-Law sextet), are gunning for their second straight win. Between the posts the plumbers will feature Hendershott or McEachran while behind the Blue Line they have Chaikin, Felsted,

Red Quintet Meet R.C.A.F. Tonight

Sharkey, Ingham Lead Intermediates Hoopsters in Tilt

After a three week layoff over the holidays, the McGill Intermediate basketball hoopers get into action again tonight at 9.30 p.m. in the Gym when they tackle the R.C.A.F. No. 12 Depot quintet. In the first game of this doubleheader, taking place in the small gym, Canada Car tackles the University of Montreal.

Although the Redmen have dropped their last two tilts to Macdonald College they showed much improvement in their last game against the boys from St. Annes. The Red and White basketballers started the season with a 29-25 triumph over the Canada Car squad but then were trounced by Mac 37-24, however in their last appearance the locals put up a stiff fight and came out on the short end of a 27-20 count.

Sharkey, Ingham Star So far Pat Sharkey and Ernie Ingham have been the main cogs in the McGill machine, accounting for the majority of the Redmen's points. During the holidays, Coach Jerry Leonards put his charges through heavy practices in order to prepare them for the coming games so that the intermediates should show a good amount of improvement over their previous form.
